

mixing engineer and hit producer

VIABLUETM meets Alan Vukelic

And what are you listening to?

If it's pop or house, it is very likely that you already listened to one of Alan's productions. Musicians of various styles enjoyed working with the good-humored mixing engineer from Germany whose second home is the US.

Since his childhood, music is key to Alan's life. Initially a thought after piano teacher, he started his own music productions 25 years ago. Today, he owns music studios in Germany and the USA.

Alan's training included guidance from US masters like #tomelmhirst, #mannymarroquin, #tonymaserati, #djyoungguru – to just name a few. On our pictures, you can see him with his US-studio crew Tim Pierce, Kenny Aronoff and Marty O'Brien.

Mixing includes the love for perfection.

The same holds true for our cables, which Alan plugs in every keyboard since almost two decades.
